We have to tender our thanks to Purser McManus, of the Fulton, for his politeness and promptitude in delivering our package.

Mr. McMannus makes the following report:—On Tuesday night, 29th, at nine o'clock, Cape Henry bearing about southwest, sixty-five miles distant, in a heavy gale from east southeast which veered to northeast, the night being very dark and the sea running very high, fell in with a large two-masted propeller, firing gans and making signals of distress, which were answered by sending up rockets and bluelights and steamed for her, the Fulton being at that time under one engling, having disabled the after air pump the day preyious, and was going very slow in consequence. After several attempts succeeded in communicating with the stranger, who reported having her engines broken down, and wished the Fulton to lay by her during the night, and tow her into a port. The wind at the time was so violent it was impossible to understand further. Kept her in sight until two A. M. of the 30th, when, the Fulton being very light, having no eargo and but little coal, and lying on her in sight until two A. M. of the 30th, when, the Fulton being very light, having no cargo and but little coal, and lying on her starboard side, a large amount of water accumulated in her lee bilge and engine room, requiring the whole force of the donkey pump and bilge injections to clear her. Was compelled by necessity to go ahead with all power and bring the ship's head to the wind and sea to relieve her from the water in her, which took until five A. M. to do, when the Fulton was steered to the southwest in search of the distressed vessel. At seven A. M., having run back the distance, could not see anything of her. The At seven A. M., having run back the distance, could not see anything of her. The weather being thick, and still blowing a gale, and taking into consideration the condition of the ship—being short of coal and very crank—was reluctantly obliged to proceed on our course, which was done at eight A. M.

We have several interesting items of news by the Fulton.
The steamer Continental arrived at Port

The steamer Continental arrived at Port Royal on the 26th uit., having left Portland, Me., on the 10th. She had on board Company A and a detachment of Company B, Second Maine cavalry, and had in tow when she sailed ship Frank Ball, which was loaded with men and horses. On the 22d ult., owing to a strong gale from the northeast, which drove the ship down so that she collided with the steamer, they were obliged to cut the hawser which held her in order to prevent a violent collision.

The gale lasted thirty hours, during which time they lost twenty-six horses. On the 23d passed a dead body, apparently kept affoat by a life preserver. They also passed parts of wreck, which showed that the storm had done serious damage in other and on the 25th, the storm still continuing, and only having four days' supply of coal on board, they altered their course for Hilton Head, S. C. They lost during the two storms fifty horses, and the remainder are so used up that it is doubtful whether they will ever be of any account.

The steamer Cosmopolitan, which arrived at Hilton Head the morning the Fulton sailed, brought the intelligence that a naval expedition up the St. John river captured at Lake George the table steams flattic Brock, laden with our hundred bales of cotton and a quantum of rice, to blacco and other articles. It is reported that large amounts of cotton, to blacco, rice, &c., are secreted along the creeks. secreted along the creeks.

MR. OSCAR G. SAWYER'S DISPATCH. HILTON HEAD, S. C., March 27, 1864. The equinoctial gale, which arrived on time last week, was one of the most terrific of any we have experienced in many months. It extended the entire length of the coast, and effectually suspended all communications between the different posts in the department. Beginning on Monday, the 21st instant, it continued until Friday morning, blowing from nearly every point of the compass, and at times approaching in strength and violence—a hurricane. So far as we have learned, no serious damage has been sustained by any of the vessels belonging to this department. Those that were out when the storm commenced succeeded in reaching safe harbors, where they were imprisoned until the weather cleared up again. The sea outside was very heavy, breaking on the deepest bars with terrific violence. St John's bar was one mass of seething, whirling foam, through which no The equinoctial gale, which arrived on seething, whirling foam, through which no yessel dared to pass. The Cossack, Captain Downing, on which I left Jacksonville on the 21st, was detained at the mouth of the river until yesterday morning, at which time she succeeded in crossing the bar, and quartermaster and commissary stores; but, encountering the gale south of Cape Henry, it became impossible for her to take care of herself and the ship, and she was therefore obliged to cast the ship off and leave her to look out for herself. The gale was terrific off Hatteras, and the Captain of the Continental reports falling in with an immense quantity of drift wood and cabin furniture, which leads him to think some disaster had befallen a steamer or other vessel in the vi-cinity. The body of a man, with a life-preserver attached, was seen floating in the water, but it was impossible to pick him up or obtain any clue to his name or that of the unfortunate vessel wrecked.

The Continental was compelled to throw overboard a number of horses which she was carrying to New Orleans. The Continental is now coaling at Seabrook, and will leave to-day or to-morrow for her des-

REBEL MOVEMENTS.

The rebels are becoming quite active about our outposts. On Sunday last they about our outposts. On Sunday last they made an attack on our pickets near Jerk & Island, but were repulsed at every point by the Seventy-sixth Pennsylvania regiment, Colonel Campbell, doing duty at that point. The rebels approached in eight large flatboats, and came in force, evidently with a view of cutting off our pickets. In this they were folled, and went back considerably cut up.

The Chippewa afterwards gave them a taste of her metal, and inflicted heavy loss upon them.

Another attempt to gain a foothold on the island the following night was baffled by Captain Knee's company, of the Seventy-sixth, which fired several deadly volleys into the boats, and drove them off. No casualities occurred on our side in either

A MISSIONARY COME TO GRIEF. Mr. James McCrea, a quandam missionary, one of the shining lights in the Gideonite firmament—a preacher of the gospel according to the saints of that highly colored sect, an exhorter of the londest kind, a distributor of old clo's among the contraband brethren, and a general benefactor of the emancipated slaves and his own pocket— has recently come to grief. He was a poorhouse agent. He cared for the destitute and needy, among whom he counted Mc-Crea; and faithfully did he perform his philanthropic duties, never forgetting Me-Crea, and thereby gaining great credit with his persuasion and great profit to himself.

words 'I sold liquor to soldiers,' is remitted.
The remainder of the sentence will be carried into effect, under the direction of the Provost Marshal of the post,"

THE SENECA COUNTY BANK

Act for the Redemption of its Bills

SPECIAL ACT TOTAL

To provide for for redeeming the bills of the Seneca County Bank. WHEREAS, On the 1st day of March, 1857, when the Seneca county bank failed, it had bonds deposited with the treasurer of this state, as security for its circulating notes, amounting to the sum of two hundred nine thousand six hundred and forty eight dol-lars. Of these bonds, the sum of one hun-dred and three thousand dollars was, with-lars. Of these bonds, the sum of one hundred and three thousand dollars was, without authority of law, appropriated to the use of the state, and to that amount and the interest thereon, the state was indebted to said bank, and to the holders of its bills; and, whereas, the state did redeem the bills of said bank and to get the amount of one hundred thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine dollars;

And, whereas, there was afterwards deposited with the receivers of said bank, bills of the same amounting to the sum of fifty-four thousand eight hundred and forty-eight dollars, for which certificates were issued by said receivers, and the bills represented thereby deposited in the treasury of this state, leaving still an uncertain amount of notes of said bank outstanding, estimated not to exceed ten thousand dollars; and, whereas, the payment now by the state of said certificates and bills, without interest, will only give the holders thereof the fair equivalent of their pro rata share in the securities of said bank appropriated by the state to its own use; therefore.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio. That the treasurer of state is authorized and required to pay the certificates issued by the receivers of said Seneca county bank, and to redeem the outstanding bills of said bank, as hereinafter provided.

Sect. 2. Before any certificate shall be paid, inafter provided.

SEC. 2. Before any certificate shall be paid, the owner thereof, his agent, executor or administrator, shall make and subscribe an oath in due form of law, that the claimant oath in due form of law, that the claimant was the bona fide owner and holder thereof on the first day of February, 1864. Upon such refusal the claimant may appeal to the auditor of state, and his decision shall be final.

In paying said certificates and redeeming said bills, the treasurer shall make the same discount from the face thereof as was made discount from the face thereof as was made on the bills for which the certificate was given, or on the certificate paid or bills given, or on the certificate paid or bills redeemed, in receiving or purchasing the same, and no interest shall be paid on the certificates or bills, or the amount paid for the same. The treasurer shall take the receipts of the claimant upon each certificate paid, and upon each affidavit for bills redeemed, showing the exact sum paid therefor, and shall charge the same to the appropriation hereby made. At the monthly examinations of the treasury, the auditor of state shall carefully exarry, the auditor of state shall carefully examine the certificates paid and bills redeemed within the preceding month, and compare the same with the treasurer's account. If found correct, the auditor shall draw his warrant on the treasurer therefor, stating for what draw his treasurer therefor, stating for what drawn, whether certificates or bills, and the amount of each, and the auditor shall immediately cancel the certificates and burn the bills to ashes in the presence of and burn the bills to ashes in the presence of the treasurer.

SEC. 4. No greater amount of certificates shall be paid than the amount of bills now, deposited therefor in the treasury.

SEC. 5. The treasurer shall continue to pay said certificates and redeem said bills until the first day of July, 1865, and no longer. Immediately thereafter, the auditor and treasurer of state shall proceed to burn to ashes the bills for which said certificates were issued, and such as have been redeemed by the treasurer and are then on redeemed by the treasurer and are then or hand, together with the unregistered oir culation of said bank, if any. The Spring Elections in Pennsylvania.

THE DEMOCRATS HAVE SWEPT THE STATE.

[From the Philadelphia Age of Thursday.] The uprising of the people at the late spring elections in this State, against the traiterous conspirators at Washington and spring elections in this state, against the traitorous conspirators at Washington and the unhappy Abolitionists who support them, seems to have been very general. There appears to be no exception to it in any part of the State. We have given the particulars of some of the instances in which marked changes have taken place in favor of the Democracy and the country's preservation since last fall, in counties, townships and boroughs, and might occupy columns with similar details. If the facts were reversed, and the Aboltionists had been able to find, in these untrammeled verdicts of the people, half such an expression of confidence in the Administration as has been given to the Democracy, the telegraph wires would have flashed the information to every part of the country, and the whole land would have rung with the exultations of those who are eager to tear down our national edifice. Even when the Administration is enabled, by falsehood, fraud and force, to wring from our unwilling people a simulation of victory at the polls, proclamation is made of it every where as another evidence that the necks of free white Americans are bowed and ready for the yoke which the traitorous liands of their unfaithful and disloyal publie servants are preparing for them. But the free will offerings of the people in be-half of the Constitution and the Union—the verdicts rendered in the absence of bayonets and rendered honestly because the iron hand of the Administration was not present as it was last fall to enforce an endorsement of high treason against our re-publican institutions—these do not arrest the attention of those who control the tele-graphic bulletins, and who have perverted the attention of those who control the telegraphic bulletins, and who have perverted the electric wires from their legitimate uses and rendered them mere media for the dissemination of falsohood. The fact—the great fact—that Pennsylvania has indicated, at the late elections, a majority of certainly not less than PIPTY THOUSAND for the Democratic party, is not blazoned as an opposite result would have been, but is left to be disclosed, if at all, by the slow process of scattered letters or details in local journals to be gathered in the course of many days or weeks after the election.

But though the great fact that the voters of Pennsylvania have pronounced by an overwhelming majority against the Administratiou, may be tardily promulgated, it cannot be entirely suppressed or continue to be cencealed from the people, with whom their present servants seem afraid toentrust the truth on any subject, whether military, financial or political. It was a fact too grand in its proportions, too mighty in its significance, too pertentons of "the coming wrath" to the traitors in high places, too pregnant with welcome promise to the conservatives of the country, to be and by counties, are wheeling into line with the grand army of the Union—everywhere holder in, or agent for, said bank, and that no such officer, stockholder, agent, or other person or persons, has directly or indirectly any interest in, or expectation from such certificate or bills.

Sec. 3. The treasurer of state, unless satisfied the claimant is the bona fide owner of the certificate, bill or bills presented, or that

CINCINNATI, March 17, 1863,
Mr. P. Martin, of this city, has constructed a "Hot Air Furnace" in the Second Reformed Church (corner Findlay and Baymiller streets), which has thus far given entire satisfaction. For efficiency in warming, purity of air, and economy of fuel, we can speak of it in most favorable terms. Its permanence and durability also seem to promise well. The plan of draught and ventillation is good.
From our experience, we can recommend Mr. Martin as an adept in the art of warming buildings, and as quite competent to give satisfaction in the construction of Furnaces wherever practicable.

Court of Common Pleas of Franklin County, Ohio.

Frederick L. Talcott. | Plaintiffs. Joseph Bramwell, Defendant.

THE DEFENDANT JOSEPH BRAMWELL of the State of New York, will take notice that the said Frederick L. Talcott and Daniel W. Talcott, of the City of New York, State of New York, did on the 2th day of March, 1864, file their polition in the Court of Common Pleas within and for the Court of Franklin, State of Ohio, against him the said Joseph Bramwell. The object and prayer of said petition are as follows: It sets forth that the said Joseph Bramwell. The object and Daniel W. Talcott did, on the 21st day of May, A. D. 1858, recover a judgment in the Court of Common Pleas of the City and County of New York, against said Joseph Bramwell, for $18,123 10-00 (eighteen thousand one hundred and ninety-three 10-00 dollars.) That said judgment is still in full force and wholly unsatisfied, and that the amount thereof with interest thereon from said 21st of May, 1858, at seven per cent. per annum, cheing the legal rate of interest in the State of New York, is due to the said plaintiffs from the defendant; and it prays for judgment against the said Joseph Bramwell for the said amount with interest as aforecaid. The said Joseph Bramwell is notified to appear and answer said petition on or before the third Saturday after the 22d day of April next.
